Amusements
Eight new and elaborate sets of scenery are carried by the Vance company who are at the Grand for three nights and Saturday matinee, commencing Thursday, Nov. 8 to produce Mr. Vance's own carefully followed version of Mrs. Southworth's famous novel, "The Hidden Hand," which will be played by the capable company on Saturday matinee, and the latest production of Mr. Vance's great hit in comedy is that ever laughing side-splitting bit of work called "Queen of the Circus." This piece is beautifully costumed and calls forth every effort and the full talent of Manager Vance's clever company. The play with the elaborate scenery painted by T. A. Follis for both of the above pieces and that wonderful little "Beatrice" heading the bill is sure to create a most favorable impression on all who witness the performances.

A good play needs no eulogistic introduction. To announce the coming of Hoyt's "A Tin Soldier" is sufficient. Suffice it to say that the production this season is absolutely new and the most expensive ever given to farce comedy. The cast is composed of ladies and gentlemen who have been selected on account of their reputation as farcical fun-makers and include such well known artists as Miss May Fiske, who created such a sensation in New York city the past season on account of her beautiful and artistic rendition of her original Scotch ballads, as well as Loy Quinton, Jas. F. Lee, Harry Bond, Phil Barnard and Almorea Hallam. "A Tin Soldier" will be the attraction at the Grand Opera house on Tuesday evening, Nov. 6. A special ten act vaudeville performance has also been arranged for 11 o'clock, consisting of the very best talent obtainable and a special wire has been placed to announce the election returns. Thus giving both ladies and gentlemen an opportunity of good amusement and hearing the election returns at a cost of 25 cents. This will be after the regular performance.

gether. The man was carrying a large iron kettle on his back. In one hand he held by the leg a live chicken. In the other a cane, and he was leading a goat. Just as they were coming to a deep, dark ravine the woman said to the man:
"I am afraid to go through that dark ravine with you. It is a lonely place, and you might overpower me and kiss me by force."
"If you are afraid of that," said the man, "you shouldn't have walked with me at all. How can I possibly overpower you and kiss you by force when I have this great iron kettle on my back, a cane in one hand and a live chicken in the other and am leading a goat? I might as well be tied hand and foot!"
"Yes," replied the woman, "but if you should stick your cane in the ground and tie the goat to it and turn the kettle bottom side up and put the chicken under it, then you might wickedly kiss me in spite of my resistance."

"Success to thy ingenuity, O woman!" said the man to himself. "I should never have thought of this expedient." And when they came to the ravine he stuck his cane into the ground and tied the goat to it, gave the chicken to the woman, saying, "Hold it while I cut some grass for the goat," and then, lowering the kettle from his shoulder, he wickedly kissed the woman, as she was afraid he would.—Stray Stories.
